Your celebration or tradition can be about anything you want, and it does not matter if you or other people may think it is bizarre or unimportant because this is your own celebration. So, you are free to decide, and you can do it in any format you want, but you must include:

- The name of your tradition or celebration.
- The reason behind your celebration and the reason why people should celebrate it.
- The date, when is it celebrated? Why did you choose that date?
- The typical outfit people should wear.
- Typical food people should eat and share.
- Extra information you would like to include. (image that explains the tradition)

You have to create a POSTER that shows your own tradition including the points mentioned in the previous list. (20 points)

Here are some examples:

“The Monkey Buffet Festival in Thailand is celebrated every year in November, to bring luck to the people of the city of Lompuri. Even though there is no reason for the date, people gather every year to celebrate. Some people dress in monkey costumes, and everyone brings fruits for the animals, gathering more than 3.000 kilograms of food every year as a gift for the monkeys of the city, who are “the owners” of the place. Typically, people share fruits and vegetables, and they also provide food for the numerous monkeys that live in the city. Also, there are artistic performances, music, and many other art manifestations because this festival gathers more and more people every year”

This hilarious expression below is what GURNING looks like and it is a rural English tradition celebrated since 1267. There even existed a World Gurning Championship in England in which participants make the most grotesque face possible. If you think this is a silly tradition, you couldn't be more wrong. Four-time world gurning champion Peter Jackman got his teeth removed to make his expressions easier. Talk about dedication!

Now it's your turn to tell us about your own tradition!

Make a poster you can use: paper, your computer or cellphone, draw, cut or paste images, be careful with spelling and use a clear writing. Be creative!!!
